Dear Judges Marrero, Pauley and Sweet:

This firm represents The Bear Stearns Companies, Inc. ("Bear Stearns" or the "Company") in the above-captioned litigations. We write to advise you that the recent case filings before Your Honor Judge Sweet, Eastside Holdings v. The Bear Stearns Companies, et al., filed March 17, 2008, and Your Honor Judge Marrero,

Howard v. The Bear Stearns Companies, et al., filed subsequently on the same day, present common factual issues and defendants with five later-filed cases in this District: (1) Becher v. The Bear Stearns Companies, et al., filed March 18, 2008, and (2) Weber v. The Bear Stearns Companies, et al., also filed on March 18, 2008, which have both been referred by plaintiffs to Your Honor Judge Sweet as related to Eastside Holdings, as well as (3) Pisano v. The Bear Stearns Companies, et al., filed on March 24, 2008, which is currently unassigned, (4) Greek Orthodox Archdiocese Foundation v. The Bear Stearns Companies, et al., filed on March 25, 2008, before Your Honor Judge Pauley, and (5) Menos v. The Bear Stearns Companies, et al., also filed on March 25, 2008, which is currently unassigned.

Defendants in all seven of these cases overlap, and include Bear Stearns, as well as various present and former directors and officers of the Company. Moreover, the factual allegations in all of the cases are essentially the same, focusing on Bear Stearns' exposure to mortgage-related liability, and the Company's public disclosures with respect thereto as its share price declined, culminating in the March 16, 2008 announcement that J.P. Morgan Chase would purchase Bear Stearns.

Thus:

- (1) Eastside Holdings is a putative securities class action alleging violations of § 10(b) of the 1934 Act and Rule 10b-5, as well as § 20(a) of the 1934 Act, on behalf of all persons who acquired Bear Stearns' common stock during the class period (defined as December 14, 2006 – March 14, 2008) (e.g. ¶¶ 1, 59-65). The claims arise out of Bear Stearns' exposure arising from its mortgage-related activities (e.g. ¶¶ 7, 55), the Company's deteriorating liquidity position (e.g. ¶¶ 10, 11, 43, 56), and the public disclosures made by Bear Stearns about its financial health throughout the class period (e.g. ¶¶ 30-36, 38-39). The suit alleges that false and misleading statements and omissions by defendants resulted in Bear Stearns' stock trading at artificially inflated prices, and that the share price then plummeted as a result of "public revelations" regarding the "truth" about the Company's exposure to mortgage-related liability and its business prospects going forward (e.g. ¶ 58) – in particular, a March 16, 2008 announcement that J.P. Morgan Chase would purchase Bear Stearns for $2 per share (e.g. ¶¶ 48-49).
- (2) Howard, a putative ERISA class action on behalf of ERISA plan participants whose accounts held Bear Stearns' stock, also asserts claims arising out of the Company's mortgage-related activities and public disclosures during the same class period defined in

Eastside Holdings (e.g. ¶ 36). In particular, Howard alleges that defendants imprudently permitted the investment of Bear Stearns ERISA plan assets in Bear Stearns common stock throughout the class period, despite the fact that defendants knew or should have known that investing in Bear Stearns stock was unduly risky due to “the foreseeable deleterious consequences to the Company resulting from its substantial entrenchment in the subprime mortgage market” (e.g. ¶ 8). As in Eastside Holdings, Howard alleges that the Company disseminated materially false and misleading information during the class period about its exposure to mortgage-related liability, its financial health, and its future business prospects (e.g. ¶ 71), which artificially inflated the stock price (e.g. ¶ 72). Similarly, plaintiffs also allege that, as information was revealed – and, in particular, after the March 16 announcement that J.P. Morgan would purchase the Company – Bear Stearns’ stock fell in price (e.g. ¶ 103).

- (3) Becher, like Eastside Holdings, is a putative securities class action alleging violations of § 10(b) and Rule 10b-5, as well as § 20(a), on behalf of all persons who acquired Bear Stearns common stock during the same class period (e.g. ¶¶ 1, 59-65). The language of the Becher complaint mirrors that of Eastside Holdings, and the class action allegations are identical.
- (4) Weber, like Howard, is a putative ERISA class action on behalf of ERISA plan participants whose accounts held Bear Stearns stock during the class period (defined as December 14, 2006 – March 18, 2008) (e.g. ¶ 1), and the factual allegations are the same (e.g. ¶¶ 3, 57). As in Howard, Becher, and Eastside Holdings, the claims in Weber arise out of the Company’s mortgage-related activities and public disclosures made by the Company during the relevant period, which culminated in the March 16 announcement of the J.P. Morgan deal and the sudden drop in the share price from the previous day (¶¶ 35-56).
- (5) Pisano, like Weber and Howard, is a putative ERISA class action on behalf of ERISA plan participants whose accounts held Bear Stearns stock during the class period (defined as December 14, 2006 – March 24, 2008) (e.g. ¶¶ 1, 4). The factual allegations in the Pisano complaint are the same as in Weber, Howard, Becher and Eastside Holdings insofar as they center on Bear Stearns’ liability and falling share price, and its public disclosures with respect thereto, leading up to the announcement of the J.P. Morgan deal (e.g. ¶¶ 85, 86, 88, 89).

- (6) Greek Orthodox Archdiocese Foundation, like Eastside Holdings and Becher, is a putative securities class action alleging violations of § 10(b) and Rule 10b-5, as well as § 20(a), on behalf of all persons who acquired Bear Stearns common stock between March 12, 2008 and March 14, 2008 (e.g. ¶ 1). As in Eastside Holdings, Becher, Howard, Weber, and Pisano, the allegations in Greek Orthodox Archdiocese Foundation arise out of the Company's public disclosures with respect to its subprime mortgage exposure, financial health and future business prospects as its share price declined – in particular, the Company's announcements on March 12 and 14 – which, plaintiffs allege, resulted in the artificial inflation and then the collapse of the value of Bear Stearns securities (e.g. ¶¶ 5, 16-18, 20).
- (7) Finally, Menos is a putative ERISA class action on behalf of ERISA plan participants whose accounts held Bear Stearns stock during the class period (defined as December 14, 2006 – March 25, 2008) (e.g. ¶¶ 1, 2). The Menos complaint is identical to the Pisano complaint, and therefore also arises out of the same factual allegations at issue in Eastside Holdings, Becher, Howard, Weber, and Greek Orthodox Archdiocese Foundation.

In light of the common factual allegations in each of these cases, and the overlapping defendants, we respectfully request that all of these cases be assigned to the same judge in the interest of judicial efficiency and coordination. As noted at the outset, two of the subsequently-filed cases, Becher and Weber, already have been referred to Judge Sweet as related to the first-filed litigation, Eastside Holdings. Therefore, we respectfully submit that it would be in the interest of the Court, and the parties, to assign all seven of these litigations, as well as any future related cases, to Judge Sweet.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Respectfully yours,

Brad S. Karp

Dear Judges Marrero, Pauley and Sweet:

My firm represents Aaron Howard, plaintiff in Howard v. The Bear Stearns Companies, et al., 08-CV-2804. I write in response to The Bear Stearns Companies, Inc.'s ("Bear Stearns") letter dated March 26, 2008.

As Your Honors are aware, Bear Stearns' letter requests assignment of the above-referenced cases to Judge Sweet, as the assigned Judge to the first-filed of the above-captioned actions, in the interest of judicial efficiency and coordination. Plaintiff Howard does not object to Bear Stearns' request in principle. Plaintiff recognizes the advantages of coordinating cases complex class cases with overlapping factual predicates.

March 27, 2008

Although it does not appear to be Bear Stearns' express intent, Plaintiff Howard would not agree to full "consolidation" of all of the above-captioned actions into one omnibus case for all purposes, pretrial and trial. In his complaint, Mr. Howard alleges that the Bear Stearns and other individual defendants breached their fiduciary duties under the Employee Retirement Income Securities Act of 1974 ("ERISA"), § 502(a)(2), 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(2) through the maintenance of Bear Stearns common stock as an investment of The Bear Stearns Companies, Inc. Employee Stock Ownership Plan ("Plan") despite the fact that the defendants knew Bear Stearns stock to be an inherently imprudent investment during the relevant time period. The key factual issue in the ERISA actions listed in Bear Stearns' letter is whether the Bear Stearns stock was a prudent investment for the Plan during the Class Period – an issue that simply does not arise in the putative securities actions listed above.

While some of the fiduciaries are also defendants in the securities actions, not all of them are or will be, and the reverse is also true. Further, and more importantly, the legal framework governing the two sets of lawsuits is completely different, both as to liability and as to damages. For example, the securities actions are governed by the pleading requirements and dictates of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (the "PSLRA"), while the PSLRA does not apply to the ERISA actions.

Courts in this district faced with the issue of whether to fully "consolidate" ERISA cases with putative securities class action cases routinely choose separate consolidation (that is, the consolidation of related ERISA cases into one ERISA case but not the consolidation of the ERISA cases with the securities cases) with coordination between the consolidated actions for purposes of common or overlapping discovery. In re AOL Time Warner, Inc. Sec and ERISA Litig., 2003 WL 2222795 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 6, 2003); In re Global Crossing ERISA Litig., 02-CV-72834 (S.D.N.Y. December 10, 2002); In re WorldCom ERISA Litig., 02-CV-3288 (S.D.N.Y. September 18, 2002).

Therefore, Plaintiff supports the transfer of all of the above-captioned cases not already before Judge Sweet, as well as any future filed related actions for appropriate coordination. However, Plaintiff will oppose any request that the "ERISA" case be fully consolidated with the "Securities" actions for all purposes in a single action.

Plaintiff is available upon request to discuss or further brief these or related matters. Further, Plaintiff will make himself available to Your Honors for a status conference, either in-person or telephonic.

Thank you for Your Honor's attention to the foregoing.

P R O C E E D I N G S :

THE SECURITY OFFICER: All rise and come to order.

Hear Ye. Hear Ye. Hear Ye.

The United States District Court in and for the Northern District of Texas at Dallas is now in session, the Honorable United States District Judge Ed Kinkeade presiding.

Let us pray:

God bless these United States and this Honorable Court.

Please be seated.

THE COURT: All right. This is the case of James Bryant Hargrave, Patrice Hargrave, Brenda Maynard, Linda Price on behalf of all of those similarly-situated versus TXU Corp. and others. The Cause Number is 3:02-CR-2573-K, set today for a hearing on the approval of the plaintiff allocation, attorneys' fees, and final judgment.

Here representing the plaintiff is Mr. Eric Calhoun of Travis & Calhoun. And you're here and ready; is that correct, sir?

MR. CALHOUN: Yes, Your Honor, I'm here.

THE COURT: And Mr. Bruce Rinaldi. And you're here and ready, correct, sir?

MR. RINALDI: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: And Katherine Bornstein. And you're

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 here and ready?

2 MS. BORNSTEIN: Yes, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: All right. Who's going to speak on 4 behalf of plaintiff?

5 MR. CALHOUN: Your Honor, I will.

6 THE COURT: Okay. That will be great.

7 And here on behalf of TXU is Mr. Poole. And you're
8 still with TXU?

9 MR. POOLE: I am, Your Honor, through next Monday.
10 But next Monday will be my final day as an officer and 11 employee of TXU Corp.

12 THE COURT: And then you're free out in the world
13 looking for a job?

14 MR. POOLE: For the time being, yes.

15 THE COURT: All right. You don't seem too nervous
16 about it, so I'm happy for you.

17 MR. POOLE: Thank you, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: And Ms. Riddick, Anita Riddick.

19 MS. RIDDICK: Yes, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: And you're going to be staying in the 21 future, right?

22 MS. RIDDICK: Yes, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Well, good. And TXU is now
24 also known as Energy Future Holding Corp.?

25 MR. POOLE: That's correct, Your Honor.

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 In connection with the merger last October, we changed
2 the name of the parent holding company to that long, rather
3 generic name.

4 THE COURT: Okay. But it still has TXU as one of 5 its a/k/as?

6 MR. POOLE: One of the subsidiaries still uses
7 TXU. And, of course, it's the same entity. It was just a
8 name change. So I think it would probably be convenient in 9 this hearing for us all to refer to it as TXU.

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 MR. POOLE: And it would be simpler for the court
12 reporter and probably make more sense in the context.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 All right. Mr. Calhoun, I'm ready to hear anything
15 you've got.

16 MR. CALHOUN: Thank you, Your Honor.

17 Basically, two matters before the court that I believe
18 are uncontested. The first one being the motion for final
19 approval of the settlement and for the plan of allocation
20 for the proceeds of the settlement here.

21 And the second matter being the unopposed application
22 for an award for attorneys' fees, expenses, and for 23 incentive awards for the class plaintiffs.

24 And to-date, Your Honor, no one, to our knowledge, has 25 filed any objections to the class settlement of any kind.

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 And the relief requested is unopposed by TXU.

2 And to proceed to the first matter at-hand, the
3 settlement itself, Your Honor, we have a -- a settlement of
4 five years of litigation for 7.25 million dollars for a
5 class of approximately 14,000 and some odd hundred folks,
6 which is, we think, fair, adequate, and reasonable in light
7 of the circumstances of the case, the risks involved in 8 lawsuit, and the applicable standards.

9 The overriding standard, Your Honor, is basically that
10 whether the settlement is fair, adequate, and reasonable,
11 and the product of an arm's-length negotiation between the 12 parties. And here I think that standard is satisfied.

13 There's also a six-pronged test that the Fifth Circuit
14 has stated for evaluating a settlement; that being whether 15 the proposed settlement is free from fraud or collusion;

16 The complexity, expense, and likely duration of the 17 litigation were it to proceed forward;

18 The stage of the proceedings at which we are in this
19 case at the time of the settlement;

20 The probability of the success on the merits, in other
21 words, the risks and probabilities there;

22 The range of possible recovery in the case;

23 And then, finally, the opinions of counsel, the class
24 members, and the representatives of the class.

25 Respectfully, Your Honor, we believe that each of these

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 factors weighs in favor of the approval of this settlement.

2 First of all, based upon the damage estimates on a
3 theory of the case the range of damages, assuming the class
4 period that we've -- we've alleged is the one that is 5 approved -- would have been approved at trial, would have
6 been between 18 and 22 million dollars, assuming the theory
7 of loss that -- that we've alleged and which has been used
8 in other cases like this for evaluating damages based upon
9 the overpayment for -- the alleged overpayment for stock
10 during the class period.

11 If, as we've noted in the brief, if the class period
12 were extended -- as the court is aware, the stock price
13 dropped at the end of the class period but -- during the 14 class period, but however, once the information was 15 disclosed to the public after the stock price dropped it
16 gradually went back up, and has gone up -- and went up
17 substantially over time.

18 And so if you adjust the period of time for which you
19 evaluate the damages for the class, the damages number
20 gradually goes down under those calculations.

21 So in light of the range of damages we believe that 22 7.25 million, which is about a third, roughly, of the 23 possible damages, given our theory of the case, is a
24 reasonable and fair settlement given the risks of 25 litigation.

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 The second factor in evaluating the settlement is the
2 probability of success on the merits.

3 Again, the fact that the stock price went up so
4 dramatically creates some potential problems for the class
5 in loss causation. Given that a number -- a lot in the 6 class held onto their stock and it went up.

7 For folks that sold during the time period, there were 8 losses.

9 There also, Your Honor, here, this type of case, an 10 ERISA case, is a complex case. And to prove loss -- losses,
11 damages, and liability requires expert testimony. And 12 whenever you have a battle of experts there is risks
13 involved and substantial expense.

14 The next factor, Your Honor, whether or not there's any 15 fraud or collusion here.

16 Clearly, there is not. This settlement was reached as 17 a product of a substantially long, drawn-out negotiations.
18 There was an independent mediator involved and went back and 19 forth over numerous issues over the course of quite a number
20 of months in order to reach --

21 THE COURT: Who was the mediator?

22 MR. CALHOUN: Bill Baiden.

23 And he did a fine job -- we didn't settle at the 24 mediation. In fact, there was significant gap there. And 25 he continued to go back and forth and back and forth between

1 the parties after the mediation in order to achieve a
2 settlement.

3 And because of the complexity of the case and the need
4 to develop a plan of allocation there was substantial
5 give-and-take back and forth with TXU and with the 6 administrators of the plan in developing a feasible way and
7 an efficient way to allocate the proceeds of the plan.

8 The case settled while this case was on appeal to the 9 Fifth Circuit. There were substantial risks to both sides.
10 And there was no fraud or collusion here, and was the 11 product of arm's-length negotiation between qualified
12 counsel.

13 Again, the next factor, the complexity --

14 THE COURT: Let's see, who was the appellant in 15 that case?

16 MR. CALHOUN: Well, Your Honor, the plaintiffs
17 were the appellant in that case.

18 THE COURT: Just for the record. I remember.

19 MR. CALHOUN: That's correct.

20 THE COURT: So that's another factor that you had 21 to think about. I might have been right.

22 MR. CALHOUN: You might have been right, Your 23 Honor. And we might have had -- we had substantial risks at 24 that time, certainly, that the Fifth Circuit would have --

25 THE COURT: I'm not asking you to say that I was,

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 but that's a factor you have to think that, wasn't it?

2 MR. CALHOUN: Absolutely, Your Honor, and we took
3 that into account in this settlement.

4 And if the case had proceeded forward, assuming we had
5 won the appeal and the case had come back down here for, you
6 know, further discovery and trial, as -- the expense of 7 doing that would have been substantial.

8 One of the aspects of the discovery in the case had to 9 do with the European operations of TXU. And what happened
10 there and what -- what information was publicly available
11 and what should have been made publicly available.

12 And at this point in time, of course, that --

13 THE COURT: That's because TXU lost a significant
14 amount of money in that -- I guess they eventually divested
15 themselves of that?

16 MR. CALHOUN: That's correct.

17 THE COURT: But they lost a lot of money, a
18 billion dollars right before that, right?

19 MR. CALHOUN: Substantial amount of money. That 20 was a factor in this case.

21 THE COURT: And so, because it's so far away and
22 what you have to prove and how you would have to prove it
23 would have been very tough.

24 MR. CALHOUN: Very difficult.

25 In fact, when we were doing the motion for preliminary

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 approval, we had stuck an estimated number in there for the
2 cost of that, just a European discovery alone, given that
3 TXU no longer had control of documents and witnesses there.
4 And I believe Mr. Poole increased that number up to the 5 estimated -- in excess of one million dollar number for that 6 European discovery. It just really would have been 7 expensive to do all that, given the number of witnesses and 8 documents.

9 THE COURT: And isn't it true in Europe there's
10 very little discovery, and so you would be fighting upstream
11 to do all of that?

12 MR. CALHOUN: We would, Your Honor. The 13 procedures there is not nearly as efficient as they are here
14 in terms of getting witnesses and documents produced.

15 So there would have been a lot of procedural haggling
16 over -- over that. And getting the cooperation we would 17 need it would have been difficult.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. CALHOUN: And then, again, the fact that we
20 would have, both sides, would have had expensive expert
21 witnesses to get this case ready for trial. Taking those 22 depositions and things are a very expensive undertaking and 23 a risky undertaking given the facts of the case, risky for 24 the class, certainly, given the possibility of -- of a
25 lesser or no recovery, certainly given the fact --

1 THE COURT: How did you come up with this number?

2 MR. CALHOUN: Well, Your Honor, it was through,
3 again, a hard-fought negotiation. There were demands that
4 were certainly at higher numbers and offers at much, much
5 lower numbers when we started out along the road of 6 settlement.

7 THE COURT: I mean, was it a formula? Or no?

8 MR. CALHOUN: There was not really a formula for 9 the number that ended up being the final number.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. CALHOUN: It was really what, as much as we 12 could squeeze out of them, I think. And Mr. Poole will 13 address that. It was a hard-fought case.

14 THE COURT: And you had a formula for the 18 --

15 MR. CALHOUN: We did.

16 THE COURT: -- to 21?

17 MR. CALHOUN: We certainly had a formula for 18 determining the range of damages that we might recover if 19 we -- we ultimately went to trial in the case. That was the 20 18 to 22.

21 But in arriving at the settlement we just got the best
22 deal we could -- could possibly get I think for the class in 23 light of the circumstances and the dynamics of the facts and 24 the situation.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 MR. CALHOUN: Then, the next factor, the stage of
2 the proceedings, Your Honor.

3 Again, we went through, as we've already covered, that
4 it was on appeal. We had substantial risks involved.

5 We did have access during the evaluation of the 6 settlement and the evaluation of the facts of the case to 7 substantial documents and deposition testimony that were
8 taken in other lawsuits involving TXU and the underlying 9 facts of this case. There was a whistleblower lawsuit by 10 Mr. Murray, who's referenced in the complaint. And then 11 another lawsuit, the Mr. Roth case, which there were 12 depositions taken, and we had access to those depositions
13 and documents. There was testimony provided to us that was 14 taken in the Roth case for review in evaluating the facts of 15 the case that overlapped with the facts of this case and 16 were relevant to it.

17 So, again, I think that factor also goes in favor of 18 the settlement. This has been a five year process.

19 Finally, the opinions of counsel and the class.

20 Again, I think that counsels' opinion is, on the 21 plaintiffs' side, certainly, that is this is a fair and 22 reasonable settlement and it was the most we could get in 23 the circumstances.

24 And, obviously, here the class had no one --
25 notwithstanding that we sent both -- we had published notice

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 in the Fort Worth Star Telegram, published notice in the
2 Dallas Morning News. We had emailed notice to the TXU
3 employees that had accounts. We have mailed notices to all
4 of the other class members. We had in excess of 14,000
5 people who received notice. And yet we received no
6 objections, Your Honor, to the settlement. I think that
7 speaks volumes about the reasonableness of the settlement.

8 So each of the six factors mentioned in the Fifth
9 Circuit case supports the approval of the settlement.

10 Finally, a final comment, the plan of allocation we
11 believe is fair, reasonable, and adequate here. The way
12 it's structured each class member will receive a hundred
13 dollar minimum payment that for -- that has -- that's a
14 member of the class. So each of the 14,000 plus people that 15 are members of the class will receive a hundred dollars
16 deposited to a thrift account.

17 And then the remaining net settlement proceeds will be
18 allocated based upon a formula which attempts to approximate
19 the losses that they suffered during the class period,
20 apportioned among the class members according the 21 calculation of their loss.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. CALHOUN: And then the next matter before the 24 court would be the application for the attorneys' fees and 25 expenses.

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 The --

2 THE COURT: Let me stop y'all.

3 Off the record.

4 (Discussion off the record.)

5 MR. CALHOUN: The -- with respect to the
6 application for attorneys' fees and expenses, the Fifth 7 Circuit has recently come out with a couple of opinions in
8 this area, the in re: Sulfur Contaminated Fuel litigation
9 opinion. And basically has confirmed that the analysis
10 should be based upon a lodestar in a common fund case.

11 And, Your Honor, here we're asking for an award of 12 attorneys' fees of 30 percent of the 7.25 million dollar
13 fund plus $97,000 in out-of-pocket expenses. And then along 14 with an award for each of the class representatives for 15 $2500 each for their efforts on behalf of the class.

16 The standard, basically, we believe here is to take the 17 number of hours expended at the lodestar, essentially,
18 analysis, and then apply the what are called the Johnson
19 factors from the Johnson case that have been repeated
20 throughout the case law.

21 The fees that we have requested.

22 Here we've got 4300 -- over 4300 hours of time invested
23 by the lawyers on behalf of the plaintiff class over the 24 five year period and substantial amounts of efforts. And in 25 most cases like this, most of those efforts occurred in the

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 -- outside the courtroom in terms of investigation, the
2 development of a hundred plus page complaint in this case,
3 discovery efforts, depositions, and other -- other activity
4 in the case.

5 Applying the Johnson factors here, Your Honor, again
6 the first factor under Johnson is the time and labor that
7 were required in the case. Again, 4300 plus hours.

8 Multiple here in this case, we had a number of issues
9 with the class representatives where we had folks coming and 10 going as class representatives. Counterclaims were filed
11 against some of the class representatives, and we had some 12 disputes over that. And some of those folks dropped out.

13 And in the -- in the issues relating to class
14 certification, we had two class certification motions that 15 were opposed and briefed in the case.

16 And during the process of developing the settlement
17 itself, a substantial amount of time and effort were 18 necessary to develop a -- to investigate the allegations, to 19 develop a plan of allocation, and to document properly the 20 settlement of the case and bring it to fruition and to make 21 sure that the class got adequate notice and all of those
22 things, Your Honor, with respect to the class.

23 The second factor, the novelty and the difficulty of 24 the issues presented in this case.

25 I think there's really no dispute that an ERISA breach

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 of fiduciary case is a complicated case involving difficult
2 issues of proof. And, as noted in our brief, there have
3 been numerous -- a number of cases that have been tried in 4 that area where the plaintiffs have been unsuccessful.

5 The issues here with respect to causation and damages
6 make it a difficult and complicated case.

7 The next factor, the amount involved in the case and 8 the results obtained.

9 As we covered earlier, we believe the settlement at the 10 range of a third to 40 percent of the potential damages is 11 an excellent result for the class and supports an award of 12 attorneys' fees and a reasonable amount.

13 The next factor, the skill required, the experience,
14 and ability of the attorneys.

15 Again, ERISA is a complicated area requiring some 16 specialized knowledge and ability, and my cocounsel are very 17 experienced, among the most experienced in the country of 18 doing ERISA class action cases.

19 And, again, the factor of the skill of the opposing
20 counsel.

21 We had capable and ardent opposition in this case.
22 That certainly made it a tough case, Your Honor, for us.

23 The next factor, Your Honor. Whether the fee is fixed
24 or contingent and the type of fees recovered and the ranges
25 of fees recovered in other cases.

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 Here, again, it was a contingent fee case. The
2 attorneys invested their time and their out-of-pocket
3 expenses on a contingent basis with a lot of risks. There
4 was a substantial risk of a zero result that were assumed by 5 the plaintiffs' counsel.

6 And we believe that the 30 percent fee is a reasonable
7 percentage. We're in the middle range of that, of this type
8 of a class action case, and certainly reasonable in light of 9 the attorneys' fees -- the lodestar attorneys' fees that we
10 have incurred in terms of time on this case.

11 The next factor, Your Honor, the undesirability of the 12 case.

13 Again, here I think the ERISA cases are complete.
14 Expensive to prosecute to conclusion. The fact that the 15 stock price here of TXU stock went -- did so well after the 16 class period made it a hard, difficult case and one
17 potentially undesirable and difficult to prosecute.

18 THE COURT: As a matter of fact, didn't that stock
19 price go to the highest level ever in the history of the 20 company?

21 MR. CALHOUN: I believe so, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: That's right.

23 It did, didn't it?

24 MR. POOLE: It did indeed, Your Honor.

25 Ultimately, to the buy-out price, Your Honor, in the

1 merger was 69.25.

2 THE COURT: I mean, it went from like 10 or 11,
3 12, 15 dollars a share?

4 MR. POOLE: And on a split-adjusted basis that 5 would have been almost $120 a share, which clearly was the 6 highest amount it had ever been in the history of the 7 company.

8 THE COURT: Right. Okay. That's what I thought.
9 And I'm assuming you would have offered that into 10 evidence?

11 MR. POOLE: We certainly would have, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. POOLE: And as well as the other factors that 14 Mr. Calhoun mentioned about the participants' activity in 15 buying the stock at the time.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. CALHOUN: In fact, a number of -- well, a
18 significant number of class members would have had a
19 substantial value in their accounts, a substantial increase
20 in the value of the accounts between the time of the class
21 period and certainly the trial of the case.

22 Finally, the factor of preclusion of other employment.

23 And substantial amount of time and effort that was 24 required to prosecute the case certainly precluded us from 25 participating in other potential endeavors.

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 In sum, Your Honor, with respect to the attorneys'
2 fees, when you evaluate these Johnson factors in light of
3 the lodestar figure in this case of about 1.9 million
4 dollars in time in the case, the multiple that we're asking
5 for of about 1.15 we think is very modest in light of the 6 efforts, time and efforts in the case. And the requested 30
7 percent fee is reasonable.

8 We also believe that the class representatives should 9 receive the $2500 incentive fee for their participation in 10 this case.

11 It's was -- it's not a popular thing to be a plaintiff
12 against TXU here locally, and a number of them had to face
13 difficulties in staying in the case and give their
14 depositions and those kind of things, spent time assisting
15 with the case and meeting with the attorneys and staying
16 up-to-date with the case. And I think they deserve that 17 modest incentive.

18 And then, of course, the out-of-pocket expenses as 19 established by the declarations of counsel of about $97,000,
20 Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: How much was the lodestar number?

22 MR. CALHOUN: The lodestar was almost 1.9 million,
23 1.87 and some change, Your Honor, in terms of just the 24 hourly numbers based upon the time that was spent.

25 And that was up through the filing of the motion. It

1 doesn't include, like the time today, for preparing for
2 today's hearing, and those kinds of things.

3 THE COURT: You're willing to give up on that?

4 MR. CALHOUN: Didn't include that in our
5 declarations, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 All right. What else?

8 MR. CALHOUN: Nothing further, unless my cocounsel
9 has something that they would like to add.

10 MR. RINALDI: If the court has some questions I
11 would be happy to try to respond.

12 THE COURT: No.

13 Let me see counsel. Off the record.

14 (Discussion at the bench with all counsel present.)

15 THE COURT: All right. Back on the record.

16 Anything, Mr. Calhoun?

17 MR. CALHOUN: Nothing further, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Mr. Rinaldi.

19 MR. RINALDI: Nothing.

20 THE COURT: Ms. Bornstein?

21 MS. BORNSTEIN: Nothing, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 Mr. Poole.

24 MR. POOLE: May it please the court.

25 Just briefly, Your Honor, I do think it appropriate for

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 me to state on the record and represent to the court that,
2 as the court can observe from the court file, and as I can
3 tell you, this was very hard fought litigation. It was
4 heavily litigated. Obviously, the court knows that upon
5 dismissal of the class certification the case was appealed.
6 We did settled this matter while it was on appeal with the 7 assistance of the mediator, as represented to the court by 8 Mr. Calhoun.

9 THE COURT: You didn't have confidence in my 10 order?

11 MR. POOLE: I did, Your Honor, but this is --

12 THE COURT: I'm kidding.

13 MR. POOLE: This is an area of developing law, as 14 the court may be aware. And there have been some changes in 15 the law that motivated us to seek to resolve this matter.

16 I'm also pleased to tell the court this is the very
17 last litigation matter associated with the failure of TXU
18 Europe. And so we did want to put that matter behind us.
19 We want to move the company forward. So we had a very 20 robust arm's-length, good faith negotiation. And from the 21 defense perspective, we do think that this settlement is 22 fair, just, and reasonable, and in the best interests of the 23 class.

24 Beyond that, Your Honor, I don't have anything further
25 to state to the court. We don't oppose the motion and in

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 fact do support the entry of the final judgment as submitted
2 to the court. And we will commit the determination of the 3 appropriate attorneys' fees to award the plaintiffs' lawyers
4 to the sound discretion of the court.

5 Although I certainly would say to the court and on the
6 record that this group of plaintiffs' lawyers did litigate
7 this matter very, very hard. They are very well-qualified
8 in this area of law. And it was a pleasure to be on the 9 opposite side of them on this matter.

10 THE COURT: And what did you say the lodestar
11 multiple was in this matter?

12 MR. CALHOUN: Your Honor, just 1.15.

13 THE COURT: And your expenses are the $97,969.37?

14 MR. CALHOUN: Yes, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Let's see, the settlement agreement
16 was September --

17 MR. RINALDI: 26th, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: The what?

19 MR. RINALDI: 26th.

20 THE COURT: Okay. I've approved the settlement,
21 approved the attorneys' fees based on the lodestar and the 22 multiple of 1.15 at -- it will be a 30 percent of the 23 settlement, $2,175,000; the expenses, the 97,969.37; and 24 $2500 to be paid to each of the settlement representatives.

25 And I've entered a final judgment reflecting that.

RANDY M. WILSON, CSR
U.S. DISTRICT COURTS

1 (Pause.)
2 THE COURT: Okay. All right. I think that's it.
3 Anything else from y'all?
4 MR. CALHOUN: Nothing further, Your Honor.
5 THE COURT: All right.
6 MR. POOLE: Nothing from me, Your Honor. It's
7 been a pleasure to have one of my final appearances for TXU
8 to be in front of Your Honor.
9 THE COURT: Oh, it's been a pleasure working with 10 you.
11 And also you, Mr. Calhoun, to have you again.
12 MR. CALHOUN: Yes.
13 THE COURT: And I know for you sometimes it's few
14 and far between that you're able to recover this kind of 15 fee. So I'm happy for you that you were able to do a good
16 job for these folks.
17 And, you know, for people that lost money, they are 18 going to be able to get money back.
19 MR. CALHOUN: They are.
20 THE COURT: It's good to have y'all here. I'll 21 have you give the documents to Josh. And he will give you
22 whatever copies you need out of that.
23 Thank y'all very much. I will come down and shake your 24 hand, and you're free to leave.
25 (End of proceeding.)
